

Andrea Wishom

President, Skywalker Holdings, LLC

Andrea Wishom has spent her career telling stories, leading eclectic teams and creating successful high profile projects. President of Skywalker Holdings, LLC, Andrea oversees all day-to-day operations for various business, philanthropic and creative entities. She also serves as Vice President of the Lucas Museum of Narrative Art, which features visual storytelling, art and film. An award-winning media executive, Andrea joined Skywalker from Harpo Productions, where she spent over two decades launching and developing programming for The Oprah Winfrey Show, and later for OWN: Oprah Winfrey Network. Named OWN's Executive Vice President in 2012, Andrea developed unscripted programs and launched some of OWN's key primetime interview shows. As Executive Producer of Super Soul Sunday, she won a GLAAD award for the interview with Janet Mock. Committed to helping start-ups and non-profits develop successful and effective narratives, Andrea serves on the Advisory Board of Spokin (a mobile app and social network that connects consumers navigating food allergies) and as a Board Member for CASEL (Collaborative for Academic Social and Emotional Learning), the Make Believe Association, and The University of Chicago Laboratory Schools. Andrea grew up in San Francisco and earned her B.A. degree in English from The University of California, Berkeley.